

Christmas in Ādaži Secondary School

Christmas is a festive time in Latvia, it's an impatiently waited holiday for all around the country and Ādaži is no different. In the weeks leading up to Christmas break a lot of different ornaments are put out around the school.

These ornaments are most prominent in areas where small children regular. These ornaments mostly include stylized snow and Christmas trees.

However, there are not as many ornaments where older students study. Still, artistic students have made amazing and lovely paintings and ornaments. This wall pictured below was made a long time ago, but the others were made this year.

The book is handmade and took more than a week to make. Groups of students stayed in the school overnight to create it. The entire book was made of cardboard.

The tree was made by some of our classmates in the span of a week. It was made of reused cardboard and decorated with Christmas ornaments the students brought from home.

Christmas may be over but the spirit certainly hasn't faded away just yet.

Project work exhibition at schools

During 2 years of collaboration partner schools have created numerous products that have been displayed in a variety of occassions- during lessons, exhibitions in the hallways and other publically accessible places.

These have been creative works made by students and also ready products based on the project idea- recycling amd preserving.
